JUNIOR HOMEMAKERS

Polio patients Cheryl Soucy and Brenda Clark rearrange the furniture in their doll house as part of their treatment. This is part of a program encouraged by the March of Dimes to return polio patients to normal lives enjoyed by other young Americans. Mother Lauretana, occupational therapist, offers a helpful suggestion. JOIN THE MARCH OF DIMES with dollars.

Former Roanoker Now Teaching At Turkish School

Mrs. Hazelyne Holland Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Holland of Roanoke County, is teaching at Ataturk Kis Liseisi, a girls' college in Istanbul, Turkey.

She is a graduate of Lucy Addison high school and Bluefield State college. Mrs. Lee received her masters degree in business education from the teacher's college of Columbia University last June.

She was initiated into the Tau chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon, honorary fraternity of business education, at Columbia last March.

For the past three years Mrs. Lee resided in The Bronx, New York City, and was employed as secretary of the American Bible Society.

Mrs. Lee taught at A. T. Johnson high school, Templeman, Va., and Carver high school, Salem, following her graduation from Bluefield State college. She later became secretary to Dr. Edna Colson of Virginia State college before going to New York.

Please Drive Carefully

Warnings to drivers to take it easy on New Year's Eve apparently paid off in Oregon last year.

A study of state records by traffic safety officials indicated only 270 accidents were reported in the state on the last day of the year, despite the higher-than-usual number of drinking drivers usually presumed to be on the roads.

Officials expressed the hope that the same good record will be achieved this New Year's Eve. There were no deaths in New Year's Eve traffic last year, although 62 persons were injured.

Every individual can help combat New Year's Eve accidents, Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry commented.

He suggested, again, that celebrants who drink either allow non-drinking friends to drive them home or use public transportation.

"Party hosts," he said, "can do their guests a favor by serving coffee and food just before the party ends to partially offset the liquor they have consumed."

March of Dimes To Aid Thousands

Polio isn't licked yet. This is a fact that is being brought to public attention in this county and throughout the country this week as volunteer workers opened the 1956 March of Dimes. The drive for funds to carry on the polio fight will continue here throughout the month.

Thousands of polio patients still need aid, according to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. And many of these depend on iron lungs and other mechanical devices for the very breath of life.

"To stop aid now," a statement from March of Dimes headquarters said, "would be like pulling the electric plug from an iron lung."

The treatment of a single polio patient often costs thousands of dollars and extends over many years. "It is not enough to save a life," a March of Dimes spokesman said. "The job isn't finished until we have done everything possible to make that life worth living again."

The March of Dimes program includes maintenance of 14 respirator centers where medical specialists study methods of restoring the ability to breathe and demonstrate new techniques so that this knowledge can be applied in hospitals all over the country.

More than 50 per cent of this year's March of Dimes need is for patient aid. March of Dimes funds will be spent also in research programs which may save future generations from the crippling disease. The Salk vaccine was developed through a March of Dimes grant. Volunteer workers are needed here to push the drive which will end January 31. The minimum need for this year's program is $47,600,000.

Public Meeting To Be Held Jan. 4

"World Order Through World Faith" is the challenging and provocative title of Calvin Steimetz' talk to be given at the January 4 public meeting at the George White Veterans Club, 429 S. W. 4th Avenue, in the 3rd floor library at 8:00 p.m. These weekly meetings are under the auspices of the Portland Baha'i community.

Fifty Pastors Oppose Calling Constitutional Convention in Virginia

The unprecedented action of the Baptist Pastors Conference of Roanoke, Vinton, Salem and vicinity, which took action last week to launch an educational campaign against calling a Constitutional Convention for the purposes of changing Section 141 of the Constitution of Virginia, was joined this week by pastors of all other denominations in this city and vicinity. Encouraged by the rapid growing opposition among white citizens of the wisdom of hastily calling a convention to deal with changing the Constitution of our State, which to many of us is religiously sacred, the ministers have pledged to leave not a stone unturned in their effort to inform the public of the great and irreparable harm which would likely result from a hastily cooked-up convention. During these times when racial tension is unquestionably high the need of calm thinking and action has never been more apparent.

The ministers take the position that they are not playing politics in the stand they are taking. The State is confronted with the challenge of survival or defeat of a humanitarian cause. Therefore, ministers of the "Gospel of Jesus Christ," the light of the world, can ill-afford to keep quiet at such a time as this.

Heading a mammoth committee on ways and means of conducting this educational campaign which is about to get under way and continue through the January 9th referendum are the Rev. F. E. Alexander, pastor First Baptist Church, Buchanan, and editor and publisher of the Tribune. The secretary of the committee is the Rev. Frederick G. Sampson, pastor High Street Baptist Church, Roanoke. The campaign will get under way immediately.

NAACP Unit President Found Murdered

The body of another NAACP official, Herbert Johnson, 60, was found this week on his farm in Schulenburg, Texas, badly beaten and severely burned. No details have been obtained as to how long he has been dead nor who his assailants were. His home was also burned. Johnson was president of the local chapter of NAACP. The sheriff of the county has been unable to establish a motive in the slaying. Observers, however, believe that this slaying is another in the pattern of the deep south pro-segregationists who plan to kill the effectiveness of the NAACP, by making Negroes fearful of joining the organization.

Postman Takes $16,000 On TV

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 — (UP)—Roscoe C. Wright, a New York postman who got an extra week to make up his mind because of the Christmas rush, decided Tuesday night to take the $16,000 he had already won instead of shooting for the top in the television quiz show, The $64,000 Question.

Wright had been scheduled to make his decision to try for $32,000 or take his $16,000 last week. But he said he'd been too busy to decide. He was given the extra week.

Wilkins Asks FBI Intervention in Council of Belzoni

Terrorists Fail to Daunt
NAACP Activities

NEW YORK—Upon his return from Mississippi where he visited Gus Courts in the hospital at Mound Bayou, Gloster B. Current, director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Friday charged that "this latest attack upon an NAACP leader is a result of efforts of the White Citizens Council of Belzoni to deprive all Negroes in that area of their voting rights."

Together with Medgar Evers, NAACP field secretary for Miss., Current visited Courts in the hospital room to which he had been removed from Belzoni after he had been shot and critically wounded while working in his store on November 25. A leader of the Belzoni branch of the NAACP, Courts refused to remove his name from the voting list despite threats and the assassination last May 7 of the Rev. George W. Lee. The clergyman was killed not far from the store where political gangsters shot through a window in an effort to kill Courts who succeeded Rev. Lee as leader of the Negro community in that town.

Wilkins Asks FBI Intervention

Previously, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary, NAACP received assurance from Gov. Hugh White that he had "called on the sheriff and the district attorney to do everything possible to find parties guilty of shooting Gus Courts and to prosecute vigorously." Wilkins in an earlier telegram to the governor said: "In view of recent events, failure to take positive action in this case will reflect further upon Mississippi and add to the international embarrassment of the United States."

The NAACP leader also wired Attorney General Herbert Brownell urging federal intervention in this case which, he charged, "fits the pattern of violence and murder in Mississippi openly designed to deprive Negro citizens of their civil rights."

To Mound Bayou, the NAACP leader sent a telegram assuring the wounded man that "all of us at the national office together with millions of people all over the country are praying for your recovery. We are also pressing for the arrest and punishment of your assailants."

Reporting on his visit with Courts, Current said: "I was struck by this significant fact—he talked without emotion, bitterness or rancor about the incident and whether or not it would be safe for him to return after discharge from the hospital."

Negro, White Ministers Merge in Florida

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — (ANP)—Negro and white ministerial alliances here have merged into a single organization.

The all-white Daytona Beach Ministerial Association voted last Monday to integrate with the Negro Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance. The new group will become the United Ministerial Association and will hold its first meeting January 2.

Eighteen of the 26 members of the white organization were present and voted 11 to 7 for the merger.

The Rev. Gordon Peter, chairman of the Brotherhood committee which initiated the proposal, said the Negro ministers voted earlier on the merger.

NEW TEMPORARY executive secretary of Portland Urban league is E. Shelton Hill.

Urban League Appoints E. Shelton Hill Acting Secretary

The Board of Directors of the Urban League of Portland announces the appointment of E. Shelton Hill as acting executive secretary of the Urban League, effective January 1.

Hill, who has served as industrial relations secretary of the local League since 1947, will fill the top post until such time as the executive committee of the board can make a permanent selection, according to Mark A. Smith, president.

The temporary appointment is made to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Edwin C. Berry, who has accepted the job of executive secretary of the Chicago Urban League.

Hill is a graduate of Western University, Kansas City, Kansas, and has done graduate work at Ohio State University and the University of Oregon extension center in Portland.

Hill is well-known in the Northwest. Having spent a number of summers here before taking up permanent residence in 1941. He originally hails from Hugo, Oklahoma. He has had many years of experience as a teacher, principal, labor recruiter and social worker. Before joining the Urban League staff he was tenant relations officer for the Vancouver Housing Authority. During World War II he was education and recreation director for the Portland Army Air Base.

During the eight years that Hill has served as director of Industrial Relations of the Urban League, many advancement in employment for minority workers have been made in the Portland area.

His wife Heloise is a teacher in the Portland Public School System and they have a daughter, Edwina.

He is a member of Excelsior Prince Hall Affiliation, Lodge Number 23, Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Portland City Club, Portland Chapter of Social Workers, and Mallory Avenue Christian Church.

Campanella Wins Third Most Valuable Award

NEW YORK — (ANP) — Roy Campanella's tremendous comeback to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers to another pennant and their first world series victory has won him the National League's Most Valuable Player Award.

The stocky, 34-year-old catcher nosed out Duke Snider, 226 to 221, to become the second player in league history to win the prized award three times. Only Stan Musial, St. Louis outfielder, has accomplished the same feat in the National League.

Campanella won the award previously in 1951 and 1953. Thus he joins another outstanding current catcher, Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees, who last week was named the American League's most valuable player, also for the third time.

In the voting of the 24 committeemen of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs was a close third with 195 points and Willie Mays of the Giants was fourth with 165. Mays won the award in 1954.

Something to Think About

By Warren Hester

One of the most valuable traits a person can have is the ability to get along well with others. No matter what an individual does he must live and work with other people. It is vital that he be able to understand and be understood.

Certain retarding personality attributes may make this difficult, but for your advancement it would be worth while to examine the weak traits and replace them with strong and positive ones. You are so sure of yourself that you resent being told about faults. If criticized you flare up immediately. To overcome your faults, you should shed your suspicions. Be more sympathetic and less critical. Bear in mind that as an analyst and counselor, I can only guide your own honest effort. Each person must work out his mode of activity for himself. The thing you should remember is that in your search for happiness, you cannot copy after someone else, or attempt to adopt a pattern of living for yourself which is not an agreement with your basic nature.

Job Bias Case Goes to High U. S. Court

NEW YORK — For the first time in its history, the New York State Commission Against Discrimination today was challenged in Supreme Court on its refusal to make a determination of discrimination in employment.

Wendell A. Jeanpierre, 32, of 112 W. 49th St., New York City, petitioned the Supreme Court today to annul the dismissal by the State Commission of his complaint filed with them 11 months ago.

Sponsors Ball

On Christmas Eve

Many guests were present last Friday night, December 23, at the sixth annual Christmas Ball sponsored by Beta Psi Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. This lovely formal affair was held in the beautifully decorated Pompeian Room of the Congress Hotel. Enjoyable music was provided by Frank Elliot and his band.

Deltas in true holiday loveliness, gathered their mothers and patronesses into a circle at intermission and sang the Delta Sweetheart Song and the National Delta Hymn. Also at this time, pledges of Beta Psi chapter were introduced.

A pleasant surprise to most Deltas, was a telegram read by Dance Chairman Ellen T. Law, stating that Beta Psi's president, Bernadette Plummer, had been invited to Washington, D. C., by Grand Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, to participate in a National Projects and Leadership Institute. This invitation was an outgrowth of Beta Psi's outstanding work on its Career Conference last Spring. The Institute is dated from the 27th to the 30th of December and Mrs. Plummer plans to be back in Portland on January 3rd after stopping in Kansas City.

A lovely and talented Delta, Miss Betty Jean Duke, favored the guests with her rendition of the beautiful, "Tenderly."

The Delta Christmas Ball was enjoyed by all and as usual, set off the holiday festivities with a "bang".

Beware of That Over 40 Period

Married couples approaching that dangerous, over-40 period of their lives are warned in the January EBONY by Dr. Walter A. Adams to beware of those little arguments that are not immediately patched up. Such quarrels he says, are often the forerunner of a wrecked marriage.

Dr. Adams, Chicago Medical School faculty member and psychiatrist at Provident Hospital Chicago, maintains that sex does not sabotage middle-aged marriage nearly as often as people assume it does. Instead it is the lack of companionship that is the devastating bludgeon which shatters many marriages in that age group, and most such failures are traced to those early little quarrels that are allowed to hang in mid-air.

The surest way to avoid needless shipwreck in the dangerous straits of the mid-forties, says the psychiatrist, is to choose a mate with care. It is essential they have basic harmonies such as sexual, religious and political. Those with similar interests have a better chance to ride out the dangerous years than those whose interests are dissimilar.

Dr. Adams holds that many painful separations could be avoided if couples recognized the early symptoms of marital discord. He lists those danger signals as, 1) nagging wives who seek assurance of their husbands' love by making impossible demands; 2) skinflint husbands who force their wives to beg for money to pay bills; 3) husbands who become so absorbed with work outside the home that they neglect to give their mates love and understanding; and 4) in-laws who live with couples and are tolerated when they interfere in family quarrels.

Dr. Adams believes that if these danger signals are heeded as they arise divorce then would become unthinkable, for the couples will have developed over the years companionship and mutual respect that cannot be easily replaced.

The Dentist Speaks

By Dr. Samuel J. Brown, Jr.
How to Prevent Toothache—

The pain of a toothache is a symptom of disease. Dental decay which leads to toothache is so common that even dentists and physicians do not always think of it as disease. Yet disease it most certainly is.

Perhaps the most common characteristic of all disease is tissue destruction, tissue being the substance of which the body is made. So, when one says disease is characterized by tissue destruction, it is meant that parts of the body are destroyed by it. Tuberculosis attacks and destroys the lungs; gastric ulcer attacks and destroys the lining membrane of the stomach; thinking of disease, then, as tissue destruction, let us consider the progressive nature of the disease process that begins with a cavity in a tooth. It starts by destroying the hardest substance, or tissue, in the body—the enamel, or outer covering of the tooth. If unchecked, it promptly eats its way to the dentin under the enamel. It then progresses rapidly through the dentin into what is commonly called the nerve—the soft, pithlike center of the tooth, which the dentist terms the pulp. It is at this point that toothache first occurs. The disease next proceeds to destroy the pulp and thus establishes a channel through the end, or apex, of the tooth, which permits harmful bacteria from the mouth to pass through and attack the jawbone, resulting in a collection of bacteria or a focus of infection. From this source the bacteria and their poisons may be transmitted by the blood in circulation to almost any tissue or vital internal organ.

Next Week: First Step in Halting Dental Disease.

QUESTION: How often should a child visit the dentist?

Answer: A definite rule as to how often a child should visit the dentist cannot be made. Children, like adults, vary in mouth cleanliness and susceptibility to tooth decay. In general, dental visits should be made at least every six months, or as often as the dentist directs.
